Slusmeyer Resigns As Club Golf Pro

Louis Slusmeyer has resigned as golf pro at the Calloway Country Club, according to Alfred Lindsey, president of the club.

Slusmeyer started work at the club in the summer of 1955 as golf pro and aided in the actual construction of the golf course. He also developed the present greens which are considered the nicest in this part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Slusmeyer and their daughter Sandra, moved to Murray in 1956, purchased a home at 1658 Ryan Avenue. They have lived here since that time, coming to Murray from Paducah. Sandra is now Mrs. Dannie Edwards.

Mr. Slusmeyer has not revealed his plans for the future. Lindsey said that no action has been taken by the club to find a replacement for Mr. Slusmeyer but indicated that a new golf pro will be hired in the near future.

The nine hole golf course at the Calloway Country Club has grown in popularity since the club was organized and is the scene each year of spirited play. Several tournaments have been held on the course and those who play in these tournaments have been complimentary of the course.

Scott Drug Is Thief Victim

A break-in occurred last night at Scott Drug and the office of Frank Ryan, insurance man, who has an office on the second floor. John Ed Scott said that a door on the east side of the building was forced open and entry to the basement was obtained.

He said that it was difficult to see just what might be missing since that area is used for a storeroom. The robber then made his way up the stairs to the second floor and ransacked the office of Ryan, where apparently nothing is missing.

City police are working on the case.

ROTC Students Will Visit West Point

PORT HAYES, Ohio — Thirty Army Reserve Officer Training Corps students from 18 colleges and universities within the XX U.S. Army Corps got first-hand impressions last weekend of life at the United States Military Academy.

Advanced ROTC students from Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia were flown by the Air Force Thursday from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, near Dayton, Ohio, to Stewart AFB, New York. Transported by bus to the Academy, they were met by West Point upper classmen who are serving as their sponsors during a four-day familiarization visit.

Purpose of the tour was to acquaint potential Army Reserve officers with the academic and technical training of future brother officers who will obtain their Regular Army commissions upon graduation from the Academy. By the same token, said Captain Richard N. Stoddard, Assistant Professor of Military Science at Ohio State University, "the Advanced ROTC students were observed by the Academy cadets. Reserve officers from schools and colleges will far outnumber the Academy graduates."

From Murray State College will be Larry D. Lynn and Coleman J. McDevitt.

Church Merger Talked In Top Meeting

By LOUIS CASSELLS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of four major denominations gathered here today for talks on the most extensive church merger that has ever reached the stage of serious negotiation.

Participating in the "exploratory" conversations were representatives of the Methodist Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Church of Christ, and the United Presbyterian Church. Together they have more than 18 million members in 60,000 congregations across the United States.

Delegates from the four bodies were meeting in closed session today and Tuesday at the College of Preachers, on the grounds of Washington Cathedral. Spokesmen emphasized that no substantive decisions should be expected from the initial meeting, which will be concerned mainly with procedural problems, including a schedule for future sessions.

Significant Milestone — Despite its preliminary nature, today's meeting was regarded by churchmen as a significant milestone in the Christian unity movement. The four denominations involved are not only among the nation's largest. They also represent widely differing traditions.

Supporters of the merger proposal acknowledge that many difficult problems must be solved and that it will take years of patient negotiation to work out a plan of union which has any chance of acceptance. But they feel that if this merger can be accomplished, it will be a major breakthrough toward reunion of the whole Christian family.

Others to be Invited — The participating groups have indicated that other denominations will be invited to join the unified church, if the negotiations bear fruit.

Participating in the talks were members of the Episcopal Church's Joint Commission on Anglican-Methodist Unity. Appointed by each of the other three denominations.

Heading the delegations were Methodist Bishop Glenn R. Phillips of Denver, Episcopal Bishop Robert F. Gibson Jr. of Richmond, Va., the Rev. Dr. David G. Colwell of Washington, for the United Church of Christ, and the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, for the United Presbyterian Church.

FRANKFORT, April 9 (Monday). April 16 is the deadline for filing the Kentucky individual income tax return.

Revenue Commissioner James V. Marcum cautioned every taxpayer to follow instructions carefully in filing out the return and to be sure the return is properly signed. A joint return must be signed by both husband and wife. An unsigned return is not a valid return, he said.

Marcum pointed out that every individual, single or married and not living with husband or wife, who had a gross income of $1,200 or more in 1961 must file, except individuals 65 years of age or older, who must file if they had a gross income of $2,400 or more.

Married individuals living with husband or wife must file if their combined gross income exceeds $2,500.

Taxpayers may secure assistance in completing the return at any of the State Department of Revenue offices in principal cities throughout the state, Marcum said.

Charlie Lassiter To Head Wyatt Campaign

Calloway County's campaign organization for Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt, candidate for the United States Senate, will be headed by Charlie Lassiter, Chairman, Murray.

The announcement was made from the Wyatt for Senator headquarters, Room 743, Sheraton Hotel, in Louisville, by J. D. "Jiggs" Buckman, Shepherdsville, and H. Jack Reynolds, Mt. Sterling, Co-chairmen of Organization for Wyatt Campaign.

Shelby Kinkead, Wyatt's State Campaign Chairman, expressed pleasure that Lassiter will lead the Wyatt forces in Calloway County and said that he "will be an able organizer for a Wyatt victory. We are convinced that the Democrats of Kentucky will be beaten."

Dr. M. M. Luckens, a staff member at the College of Pharmacy, who heads the "central," said the agency will furnish laboratory service in poison cases plus toxicologic information on antidotes.

The center will be an adjunct of the present poison control centers already operating throughout the commonwealth. One of its primary purposes is to furnish information to physicians or individuals in poison cases in the event the various state poison control centers cannot be reached or do not have specific information in their files.

Persons wishing to contact the center should call Lexington and ask for the U. of K. telephone number 2-2200. They then should ask the U. of K. operator for "poison information" to be placed in touch with the center.

Dr. J. D. Rodriguez, of the state Agriculture-Experiment Station, said all cases of poisoning should be reported to the center.

"If the case is recognizable as a poisoning case the center should be called. Serious reaction might be avoided, for instance, if the physician can learn from the toxicologist that certain proven treatments will avoid such reaction," Rodriguez said.

Fidel Asks $62 Million For 1,180 Captured Cuban Invaders

By United Press International

Fidel Castro, in a move apparently aimed at rescuing Cuba's ailing economy, wants $62 million in American dollars for the release of 1,180 captured Cuban invaders.

The Cuban premier will meet Tuesday in Havana with a four-man delegation representing families of the prisoners in hope of obtaining from $25,000 to $500,000 for individual members of the invasion force.

The government ruled Sunday if Castro's price is not met the men would have to spend 30 years at hard labor for their part in last April's abortive invasion. The announcement was made in Sunday editions of government-controlled newspapers.

The public trial of the prisoners, for whom the death penalty had been asked of the five-man court, ended last Tuesday with no announcement of a verdict.

The "Cuban Families Committee for Liberation of Prisoners of War" cabled Castro Sunday it was prepared to "definitely settle negotiations and liberate all prisoners."

The group said it would be able to offer "products or articles" valued at $28 million and Castro agreed to meet with the four-man delegation.

The committee's cable, signed by Chairman Alvaro Sanchez Jr., said the "firm offer" does not refer to tractors. "In a speech last May 17, Castro made no reference for prisoners' offer, asking that the captives be exchanged for 500 tractors worth about $2 million. He later said he wanted heavy duty tractors which would cost considerably more."

Castro's Demands Increase — All attempts to make the exchange failed and the Cuban dictator subsequently increased his demands until a $28-million price tag was placed on the prisoners Sunday Castro more than doubled this.

In Washington, the administration had no official comment on Castro's latest manipulation with human beings. It appeared the United States, which the court-martial board at the prisoners' trial charged with financing and backing the invasion, would take no official part in the negotiations.

Some sources observed that Castro might be trying to establish some diplomatic contact with the United States because no death sentences were handed down at last week's trial.

ASHLAND, Ky. (UPI) — Harry King Lowman, who withdrew Sunday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, was reported in good condition today at a hospital here where he underwent surgery.

The Speaker of the state House of Representatives was advised to withdraw from the primary race by his physician, Dr. Joseph Stephenson, of Ashland.

Lowman, whose efforts were being backed by the combined party factions of former Govs. A. B. Chandler and Earle Clements, became ill Friday at Elizabethtown and later collapsed at his Louisville Campaign Headquarters.

His withdrawal leaves three Democratic senate aspirants in the May 29 primary. They are Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt, Glasgow attorney Marion Vance, and James Logan Dink of Frankfort.

They seek to oppose either incumbent Sen. Thurston B. Skason or Thurman Hamlin, both candidates for the Republican nomination. Walter Clay Van Hoose, of Paintsville, filed last week as the senatorial candidate on the Conservative Republican ticket.

James F. Gordon of Madisonville, Lowman's campaign chairman, said Stephenson performed an operation on the Ashland Democrat Sunday to remove a polyp from the colon. Stephenson said the tumor, "though benign, was potentially serious, and did not fully account for the existing bleeding condition."

A statement issued by the Lowman campaign headquarters said, "Dr. Stephenson has advised Mr. Lowman . . . that due to the seriousness of this matter and the urgency of treatment, examination

SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY
MIAMI (UPI) — This probably should have been written on April Fool's Day, but the way Fearless Fraley sizes it up today, it has to be the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers in the major league pennant races this season.

This is known familiarly in baseball circles as the kiss of death and the price on both clubs now should skyrocket higher than John Glenn. Ralph Houk and Walt Alston may not commit hari kari when they hear it but that's only because they can't find the right sized knife.

However, Old Fearless has worked diligently on this prognostication and these choices are as safe as Yankee dollars in a Cuban bank.

In arriving at these glib deductions, I spared nothing but expense. Old Fearless was picked off a picnic bench by a line drive while inspecting even the Washington Senators and almost was belted for a certain outfielder's first home run of the year. Add to this a rash from drinking too much orange juice on the citrus circuit, the highest round of golf ever shot in the history of Florida and a complete shutout on several fishing expeditions and you have an unqualified baseball expert whose opinions must be valued highly.

To keep you from further suspense as to just where your personal hit and run heroes will wind up this season just before the Dodgers beat the Yankees in the World Series, here they are: fanfare of trumpets.

American League
1. New York; 2. Baltimore; 3. Chicago; 4. Detroit; 5. Cleveland; 6. Minnesota; 7. Boston; 8. Kansas City; 9. Washington; 10. Los Angeles.

National League
1. Los Angeles; 2. San Francisco; 3. Milwaukee; 4. St. Louis; 5. Pittsburgh; 6. Cincinnati; 7. Chicago; 8. New York; 9. Houston; 10. Philadelphia.

In the American League it shapes up as a three-division race. The murderous Yankees have a lock on the first division. Baltimore, Chicago and Detroit should battle it out in the second division. Cleveland will lead the third division clubs and it should be a marvelous race for the cellar among Kansas City, Washington and Los Angeles.

But when you consider that Yankee pitching and that Yankee power, it's a wonder that the rest of them bother showing up. Still, with ticket prices going up annually, it beats working.

All-Out Dog Fight
The National League promises a real all-out dog fight right down to the wire and the Dodgers and Giants should be at it hot and heavy all the way with the Braves and Cardinals right in there pitching, too. Dodger pitching looks powerful enough to swing the balance and the Giants' power should be playing in their private wind tunnel.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati have had their surprise years of late and from there back it falls under the heading of fresh air and exercise for the troops.

The New York Mets and Houston can't be expected to do too much, despite all their glowing estimates, because it takes more time to build a first division team than it does to hire a Casey Stengel. But Old Case being back insures the league a lively time in the linguistic department even if some of the alleged baseball leaves a lot to be desired.

Now, as to football.

Dating Back To Taft The New Frontier

President Kennedy Slated For First Pitch In Opener

by United Press International
President Kennedy, a tough football player of some repute, unlimbers his strong right arm for baseball today to help open a "New Frontier" in the major leagues — if a gloomy weather forecast fails to materialize.

The President, who showed a live fastball last year in his first experience in a ceremony dating back to William Howard Taft, will throw out the first ball at the game between the Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers in the nation's capital if rain doesn't force a postponement.

President John F. Kennedy

An early morning forecast flatly predicted April showers for this afternoon. Sunday 11c forecast only called for cloudy skies and a 50-50 chance of showers.

Reds Meet Phillies
There also was an opening-day game scheduled at Cincinnati, where the Reds, 1961 National League champions, were pitted against the Philadelphia Phillies. Because Cincinnati was a charter franchise in 1876, the Reds traditionally open at home each year.

instead of on alternating years. Only Cincinnati and Washington rate this privilege.

On Tuesday, major league baseball formally extends its boundaries to Texas for the first time. The Houston Colts, one of the two new National League franchises in the new 10-club alignment make their debut against the Chicago Cubs.

And on Friday, National League baseball returns to the ancient Polo Grounds in New York after an absence of four seasons. There the New York Mets, second of this year's new franchises, meet the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Play in New Stadium
President Kennedy, a host of Washington dignitaries and thousands of plain old baseball fans were expected to pack the spanking new $20 million District of Columbia Stadium to its 45,000 capacity. This would be the largest crowd ever to see a baseball game in Washington.

Right-hander Bennie Daniels will take pitch for the Senators, opposed on the mound by Detroit's left-handed Don Mossi.

At Cincinnati, the scheduled starting pitchers were Joey Jay for the Reds and Art Mahaffey for the Phils. Both are right-handers.

Dodgers Dedicate Stadium
The Los Angeles Dodgers will dedicate their new Chavez Ravine Stadium Tuesday against the Reds. Other NL openers on that day pit the Milwaukee Braves at the San Francisco Giants, the New York Mets at the St. Louis Cardinals, the Phillies at Pittsburgh, and Chicago at Houston.

The world champion New York Yankees also open at home Tuesday, against the Baltimore Orioles. Other American League openers on that day find the Cleveland Indians at the Boston Red Sox; the Los Angeles Angels at the Chicago White Sox, and the Minnesota Twins at the Kansas City Athletics.

Service Can Supply Your Italian Needs

By JOAN SWEENEY
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Going to Rome? Need an English speaking dentist or perhaps a villa with seven bedrooms and baths for a month?
A personalized service called Guide-International can provide either.
The service guides tourists to everything from out-of-the-way bargains to ice cream sodas.
Guide International is the brain child of dark-haired, dark-eyed Mrs. Paola Kenneally. The daughter of a Danish count and an Italian woman, Mrs. Kenneally was raised in Italy. But she lived in America for several years after her marriage to an American newspaperman, William Kenneally, in 1947. She became an American citizen in 1951.
Although Guide International's come from many countries, from India to South Africa, most of them are Americans.
The most common services the organization provides are English speaking secretaries, drivers, lawyers, doctors, dentists and shopping guides.
Has Many Bargains
Mrs. Kenneally said Rome has many bargains but a tourist must know where to go. Her organization also provides guides for bargain hunting expeditions.
Although the voluble Mrs. Kenneally can fill most requests readily, a few have proven more difficult—such as an American industrialist's request to rent a villa with seven bedrooms and bathrooms located the villa but suggested to her client that it would be far cheaper to stay in a hotel.

CHAPTER 32
THE HORSEMAN rode north as the sun swung down the western sky, pushing their mounts hard. Sweat trickled down Tam Barrie's back. The solid weight of weariness dragged at him.
Under a sky of cobalt and brass, the broken peaks of the main range lay far to their left. The mass of West Butte, part of that strange triple outcrop from the flat prairie, began to loom large ahead.
Ever and ever Tam listened for the sound of gunfire, but the dir not come. They stopped for a minute to breathe the horses, to sip warm water from canteens. Still the wide land was silent except for mending and the rasp of grasshoppers and the slurring rush of the light breeze.
They came on the Métis beyond a slight rise. A great wave of relief surged over Tam. He looked down on a scene of confusion, of riders and men on foot milling around a wagon like ants in a broken hill. The canvas top of the wagon was silver-gray in the sunlight: Cleland Strike's third supply wagon.
"I pray that sweet girl is safe," Chance Flagg said. "She had better be," Tam said harshly. "Wait here, Flagg. We're going in. Don't move unless there's trouble."
The three rode toward the milling men, Gabriel Valier a little ahead, Colly Devoe and Tam flanking him. As they rode, Tam found himself in close kinship to these men, closer than he had ever been to friends in his life.
It must be, he thought, our singleness of purpose, our great determination to keep the Métis from this suicidal rebellion.
Now the Métis saw Gabriel Valier. A score of them pulled their horses out of the turmoil and came whooping down upon them. There was excitement in their dark handsome faces, and Tam thought, something of relief at the arrival of this trusted leader. They swung into a compact group around the three, making no effort to reveal them of rifle or pistol.
"Ze rifles, they are few..." "Strike has not the little cannon he promised..." "They say, the Queen she bring ten Bois Brûlé for every Mounted who is kill..." "Gabriel, I think we make dam' fool of ourselves. Come and talk truth." In this spate of excited talk, the determination to keep the Métis from this suicidal rebellion opened a lane that led to the wagon.
Near the rear of the wagon, Cleland Strike sat a powerful black horse, whom "serviced properly" at the house and of them. He looked naughtily at the three down his beak of a nose. His mouth was thin and taut with strain. Tam tried to peer past him into the wagon, but Strike's horse blocked the view. Tam could not tell if Dove Demarest was in the vehicle.
As Gabriel Valier rode up, the movement of the horsemen filled. The excited talk died down to a murmur. The Métis drew back, leaving a rail-circle around the end of the wagon. At each side of the wagon were ranged half a dozen men, the last of Strike's army from Hay Lake. They sat their horses uneasily, their hands on pistol butts, their eyes searching for possible trouble.

Now Tam could see Pierre LaCroix standing on foot near the tailgate of the wagon. The Métis governor looked confused and distraught, as if he had been caught up in events beyond his comprehension.
Strike, with the nerve and the impudence of a born showman, took advantage of the silence to point his finger dramatically at the three men. "Here are your traitors!" he cried. "Here are the ones who told the Mounted Police that we march today. Fifteen minutes it will take to shoot them. Then, boys, we'll cross the border. We'll sweep the Mounted Police like rabble before us. By sundown we'll be masters of Fort Macleod and Northwest Canada."
At his motion, his handful of men took a stride forward. But rifle hammers clicked behind the three, and the mercenaries moved back, trying to look as if they had not stirred at all.
A young man of the Bois Brûlé said: "These are our own people. We will hear them. Gabriel Valier has always wise counsel."
Tam was inordinately pleased at being included among the burnwood men, in this sincere speech. He rode a little to the side, to open room for Gabriel Valier.
Valier singled out Pierre LaCroix, motioned him forward. The governor came ahead hesitantly, still looking like a man whose dreams have turned to dust.
"Pierre," Valier said, with a note of sarcasm, "why do our men stand here leaderless, when the border is so close? Why, we should command half of Canada by this hour!"
"Our scouts found the Mounted Police massed to block the main trails to the north. And this man," he swung a hand toward Strike, "has brought only half the arms he promised, nor has he brought the two cannons he promised. He says they are coming with his men. Our men have refused to cross the border without them."
"In all of the Northwest, there are not more than a hundred men in scarlet tunics," Valier said scornfully.
"That's what I've been telling them, Valier," Strike said. "They can overrun Kingston's men in a few minutes, and across the way to the free land of the Métis."
"Of course," Valier went on as if Strike had not spoken. "The Mounties are good fighting men. They will take many of you brave lads with them when they die. And the Queen, she does not like it when one of her lads in scarlet dies in her service. The men who do it will

Two In Lead For Actress Of The Year

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Sophia Loren and Natalie Wood were among the leading contenders today for best actress of the year laurels at tonight's Academy Awards presentations.

The 34th annual Academy Awards shindig will see 28 golden statuettes distributed to performers, writers, technicians, directors and musicians for outstanding contributions during 1961.

Favored to come away with most of the awards is the musical "West Side Story" with close competition from "Judgment at Nuremberg." Also in contention are "The Hustler," "The Guns of Navarone" and "Fanny."

Both pictures won '11 nominations last month.

Unlike last year, when Elizabeth Taylor was the sentimental favorite to win the best actress award, competition this year is very close in almost all categories.

Best actor nominees are Audrey Hepburn, Laurence Olivier, Piper Laurie, The Hustler, Sophia Loren, Two Women, Geraldine Page, Summer and Smoke and Natalie Wood Splendor in the Grass.

Best actor nominees are Charles Boyer, Fanny, Paul Newman, The Hustler, Maximilian Schell, Judgment at Nuremberg and Stuart Whitman The Mark.

Judy Garland, competing with Fay Bainter, Loretta Young, Una Merkel and Rita Moreno in the best supporting actress race, appears to have won more sentimental votes than any other performer. She played a small role in "Judgment at Nuremberg."

Bob Hope MC
For the second consecutive year the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Awards will be held at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. Lack of theater space in Hollywood forced academy board members to move to the Santa Monica Auditorium which has a capacity of 2,500.

Comedian Bob Hope will be the master of ceremonies for the 10th time. The presentations will be telecast and broadcast at 10:30 p.m. (EST) via ABC-TV and radio.

NOBEL WINNERS INVITED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President and Mrs. Kennedy have invited 61 Nobel Prize winners who live in the Western Hemisphere to a White House dinner April 29.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said distinguished persons from the arts and sciences also would be among the 150 guests.

Kentucky now has an official State agency to help communities produce dramas, pageants and festivals—the Kentucky Council of Performing Arts.

Garden Department Has Regular Meet Thursday Afternoon

Using one flower in an arrangement was demonstrated by Mrs. Hamilton. Mrs. Gingles demonstrated the use of reflection type arrangements.

Mrs. John Hudson, chairman, presided at the meeting. New officers elected were Mrs. James Byn, chairman; Mrs. Humphrey Key, vice-chairman; Mrs. Dewey Ragsdale, secretary; Mrs. Hugh Houston, treasurer.

During the social hour a dessert course and coffee was served by the hostesses who were Mesdames Charles Warner Jr., G. B. Scott, Wesley Waldrop, A. B. Simpson, Guy Billington, R. L. Ward, M. O. Wraether and Robert Wyman.

and convalescence, that it is not in the best interest of Mr. Lowman to continue the drain upon his physical resources, which the rigors and exhaustion of political campaigning demand.

A spokesman at King's Daughters Hospital here said Lowman spent a "restful night."

Lowman, 48, has served 10 consecutive terms in the House. He was majority leader in 1952 and 1964 and speaker during the 1960 and 1962 sessions.

In 1954 Lowman had been a leader of the "rebels" aligned with Clements and Gov. Bert T. Combs who fought the Chandler Democrats.

His candidacy, backed by many anti-administration Democrats, marked a switch in political alignment.

Both Wyatt and Vance expressed regrets when informed of Lowman's ill health.

The lieutenant governor said he was sorry to hear of Lowman's misfortune and wished him a fast and complete recovery. Vance said he wished to express "my deepest regrets in this hour of Mr. Lowman's personal tragedy."

Gordon said the house speaker would issue a further statement when his condition allowed.

any State program for beautification. In fact, Kentuckians' unbending effort toward good community appearance made it possible for Kentucky to receive the award recognizing the state's cleanup and beautification efforts," the Governor said.

Commissioner Matlick said details on the recognition program would be forthcoming late but that each community's efforts during this special month and week will weigh heavily in awarding the first place. Recognition, however, will be given for work during the entire year.
